CMC Provides an Update on its Corporate Strategy for 2020

Vancouver, BC.: CMC Metals Ltd. - (“the Company”) (TSX-V: CMB) wishes to announce that this summer it will focus on identifying additional resources of high grade silver-lead-zinc on the Silver Hart property. The Company also plans to undertake efforts to develop a permitting strategy and complete the necessary environmental and engineering studies necessary to complete an application for mine development.

Over 35 years of exploration have demonstrated that Silver Hart has the potential to host significant high grade silver-lead-zinc vein deposits and carbonate replacement deposits. Recent work has indicated the potential for increased mineable widths within existing zones, the potential for extensions of these zones, and new zones within the property area. Less than 10% of the property has been subjected to modern exploration techniques.

Mr. Michael Scholz, Chairman noted, “We are very excited about the broad range of exploration efforts that will be completed at Silver Hart this year. This program will contribute significantly towards our goal to advance Silver Hart to the development stage in the foreseeable future.”

The Company will initiate a range of activities focused on expanding resources that are expected to include: re-logging of core from several drill campaigns dating back to 2005, completing new geochemical and geophysical surveys (i.e, induced polarization/VLF-EM), updating of the 3D deposit model, an extensive trenching program, and test pit sampling of the waste pile. The Company has completed an extensive study of mineralization and alteration styles associated with the high grade vein and carbonate replacement deposits in the Rancheria silver district. This data has been incorporated into the design of the exploration program to enhance the potential for new discoveries within the property area. Regional reconnaissance efforts will also be undertaken with the aim of identifying areas with exploration potential on previously unexplored claims.
